Today, we continue to focus our attention toward Easter. To prepare us for our personal reflection and celebration of Easter, I am preaching through a series of Bible passages that show us the great redemptive picture of God. The passage before us today, Psalm 78, beautifully summarizes some of the rebellious moments in the life of Old Testament Israel. The intent of this Psalm seems to be a teaching point to help us avoid that same rebellion. We note in this text today that Jesus is Saviour even through our constant rebellion.

We are thrilled to have Steve Green as our musical guest today. He has declared the Gospel through song all over the world, and he is here with us in Lafayette today. He will be back tonight to lead us for the entire 6 p.m. service. Bring a friend with you tonight! Steve

Saviour through Constant Rebellion Psalm 78

Psalm 78 is based around three illustrations of ancient Israel's rebellion.

- The Exit from Egypt
- The Experience in the Wilderness
- The Entry into the Promised Land

So What? How do we stop the cycle of rebellion?
